RE: Domonoske v. Bank of America N.A.
Case No. 5:08CV00066

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am currently a Bank of America mortgage loan customer and did receive a mortgage loan during the time frame cited in the "Notice of Proposed Settlement".

I do not believe my wife and I have been harmed by the failure of Bank of America and their computer systems. My FICO credit score is quite high. The loan to value ratio of my loan is less than 50%. My mortgage loan payment as a percentage of my income is less than 15%.

I request exclusion from the settlement. I do not believe my wife and I have been harmed. My wife and I will not pursue an independent settlement. I object to any monies being paid from Bank of America to the Class Action defendants and counsel for the defendants.

I am angered Thomas D. Domonoske and Victor Rivera with their attorneys, Lyngklip & Associates and Consumer Litigation Associates would waste the precious time of the US Federal Court in this manner.

Sincerely,

Charles Clayton Watson

RE: Domonoske v. Bank of America, N.A. Settlement / Case No. 5:08CV00066

Dear Class Administrator and Class Counsel:

I received a Claim Form regarding the above-referenced class action settlement. My PIN number is 12152677, and I completed a Claim Form online, dated January 14, 2011.

My husband, David B. Adams, did not, however, receive a Claim Form in the mail regarding this class action settlement. We have been married since October 2002, and as Washington State residents, a Community Property state, we have always applied for and obtained loans as a married couple.

Given that the relevant time period of the class action lawsuit runs from May 28, 2006, and July 11, 2009, any loan that we applied for would have been as a married couple, requiring information from both me and my spouse, David B. Adams.

Please advise us as to why David B. Adams would not be included as a member of the class.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Alice M. Adams

I object to this lawsuit. I believe that Bank of America was not negligent in their obligation to send credit scores in a timely fashion, especially in the case of mortgate applications. Mortgage applicants were sent their credit scores 4 days after their credit scores were received, which is, I believe, "as soon as is reasonably practicable." I think subjecting the bank to this lawsuit is an example of profiteering, and that there is not a real negligence to correct.

Thanks for allowing me to comment on this settlement.

Sincerely,

1st I am being earring on the news that a lot of people is being losing their houses do to Bank of America.

2nd Bank of America appreciated my house for more money than what is worth on 2006. I think that is why I lost my house by the mistake of AMC Mortgage.

3rd On 2009 we were going to lose are house by mistake of America Home Mortgage.

4th on January 17 of 2010 I was going to die on Memorial Hospital I think Maurice Abdelmalek pay Memorial Hospital to kill me.

5th Days before this date Lizet Moreno and her friend "Nena" they gave me a juice supposable to lose weight but I think t was poison because I felt seek after I drink that Lizet told me it was because of the Mexican pills call Anapsique amitriptilina 25 mg that I was taking in recommendation of a doctor but it wasn't that. Re: Domonoske v. Bank of America, N.A., Case No. 5:08CV00066

Dear Clerk of the Court:

This letter constitutes a Notice of Objection to the referenced case no. 5:08CV00066, Domonoske v. Bank of America, N.A.

According to the Legal Notice that I recently received, federal law requires that a credit score be sent to a mortgage applicant "as soon as reasonably practicable." The average time that the Bank of America takes to mail this score is "five days" after making a decision on a home equity transaction, and for other mortgage loans "four days" after receiving the score. It seems to me that "five days" and "four days" eminently constitute "reasonably practicable" times; the plaintiffs fail to explain why "five days" and "four days" are not "reasonably practicable."

This case therefore appears to be frivolous litigation intended primarily to line the pockets of two attorneys: $9950000 times 24% provides $2388000 to be divided between the two Class Counsel attorneys: $1194000 each if divided equally. Two plaintiffs would receive $5000 each and would presumably also share in the $2 minimum, $100 maximum that I as a Class member would receive. Although the Bank of America has my bank account and carries my mortgage, I am not a particular partisan of the Bank of America. Neverthess, the ultimate loser in this case would be I: the Bank of America could easily recoup its nearly $10 million expense by increasing fees and interest. My assured $2, or very unlikely $100, are thereby not justified.

I therefore strongly object to the settlement: I request that the settlement be vacated, and that cause be shown why the plaintiffs and Class Counsel attorneys should not be fined for the frivolity.

My address and telephone number are printed below.
